Bracing for impact from lower interest rates

Investment Thesis:

OCBC launched a refreshed strategy to accelerate its growth trajectory across Asia. Through its four growth pillars (capture rising Asian wealth, support increasing trade and investment flows, unlock value from new economy through digitisation, and drive sustainability), OCBC aims to achieve an incremental SGD3bn through cumulative revenue and positive JAWs in 2023-2025 to achieve ~13%-14% ROE by 2025. Currently, OCBC holds a 93.72% stake in GEH and has supported GEH's proposal to resolve the 11-month trading suspension of its shares as OCBC continues to drive synergies.

Sequential impact from an escalating trade war environment and lower benchmark interest rates, with further capital management plans likely on hold. We believe there are downside risks to earnings in an escalating trade war environment given the huge and broad US tariffs, alongside continually declining SGD and HKD interest rates. Management guided for dividends to be 60% total dividend payout ratio for FY2025 plus share buybacks, after declaring 41Scts (1H24: 44Scts) dividend per share at 1H25, representing a 50% dividend payout ratio. We believe a further advancement in capital plans is unlikely for now, even as OCBC remains open to inorganic acquisitions.

Downside risks from asset quality cushioned by high non-performing loan (NPL) coverage ratio. We remain watchful of asset quality risks in a slower global growth environment amidst concerns of accelerating Fed cuts on top of the weak commercial real estate (CRE) sector. NPL coverage ratio continues to be high at 156%.

Maintain HOLD; TP SGD15.80. Our TP is based on the Gordon Growth Model (12% ROE, 3% growth, and 11% cost of equity [previous: 12%]). Our TP represents an ~1.1x FY26F, near OCBC's historical 12-year average P/BV (one-year forward).

Key Risks

Deteriorating asset quality. Higher-than-expected NPLs, high inflationary pressure, and recessionary risks could unwind expectations for credit cost and NPL declines, thus posing risks to earnings.

Fed cuts. Faster-than-expected Fed cuts also pose downside risks to our earnings estimates.

WHAT'S NEW

2Q25 revenue and net profit in line with consensus. OCBC reported 2Q25 revenue of SGD3,547mn (-2% y/y, -3% q/q), while net profit came in at SGD1,816mn (-7% y/y, -4% q/q). Operating expenses rose 1% y/y but declined 2% q/q to SGD1,389mn on continued cost discipline with cost-to-income ratio slightly higher at 39.1% (1Q25: 38.7%). Capital ratios remained strong, with CET1 at 17.0% (1Q25: 17.6%) and total capital adequacy ratio at 19.6% (1Q25: 20.2%). Net interest income declined to SGD2,283mn (-6% y/y, -3% q/q) driven by a 12bps decline in NIM to 1.92%, partly offset by a 2% average asset growth. NIM saw a 12bps q/q compression, primarily driven by a 50bps/200bps decline in SGD/HKD benchmark rates, a 17bps decline in loan yields offsetting the 7bps improvement in funding costs, and a 2bps decline from treasury markets' asset growth due to strategic liquidity deployment into high-quality assets in 1Q25.

Non-interest income lowered q/q, weighed down by insurance income. Non-interest income rose 5% y/y but fell 4% q/q to SGD1,264mn as higher fee income was more than offset by a moderation in insurance income. Net fees and commissions came in at SGD580mn (+24% y/y, +6% q/q) after seeing growth in wealth management, investment banking, and other fees. Trading income of SGD375mn (+6% y/y, –5% q/q) was driven by stronger customer flow income while GEH saw a lower contribution at SGD226mn (-23% q/q, -26% y/y).

2Q25 saw significantly lower credit costs of 12bps (1Q25: 24bps) driven by allowances for both impaired and non-impaired assets. Total allowances were higher q/q at SGD114mn, 12bps (vs. 1Q25: SGD212mn, 24bps) including general allowances (stage 1+2): SGD49mn, 5bps (vs. 1Q25: SGD118mn, 13bps) and specific allowances (stage 3): SGD65mn, 7bps (vs. 1Q25: SGD94mn, 11bps). NPL ratio remained unchanged at 0.9%, with allowance coverage declining to 156% (1Q25: 162%).

Management lowered its FY25F NIM guidance and declared a lower interim dividend. Management trimmed its net interest income guidance by a mid-single-digit percentage, now guiding it to be in in the range of 1.90-1.95% (previous: NIM in the region of 2%) as the impact of lower NIM more than offset volume growth. Management continues to guide for mid-single-digit loan growth, cost-to-income ratio in low 40s, and credit costs in the range of 20-25 bps. Meanwhile, dividend payout ratio guidance was revised slightly to 60% total dividend payout ratio for full year 2025 plus share buybacks (previous: 60% total dividend payout ratio, combined with share buybacks as part of the SGD2.5bn capital return over a two-year period). OCBC has declared an interim dividend of 41Scts/share (1H24: 44Scts/share) on lower EPS as dividend payout ratio was 50% for 1H25.

Takeaways from management briefing:

NIM: Exit NIM was 1.88%. Of the 12bps q/q decline, two-thirds of decline in loan yield was due to HIBOR decline while one-third was driven by SGD rates decline. Post-2Q25, management believes there is good momentum from deposit rate cuts and expects upwards inflexion hereon. Management expects SORA and HIBOR to be steady at current levels and hold on to their three-rate cuts assumption, based on historical transmissions of 100% to HIBOR and 50-60% to SORA. Based on these assumptions, management believes that 3Q/4Q25 NIM will be above exit NIM of 1.88% and likely towards the higher end of NIM guidance range of 1.90-1.95%. Management is looking towards a mid-single-digit percentage drop in FY25F NII. Based on 100bps decline in rates across four major currencies, 12bps NIM decline is expected.

Loans: Close to half of the loan book is in SGD and HKD. 80% of SGD loans and nearly all of HKD loans are on floating rate. Bright spots for loan growth include housing loans, infrastructure, data centre, transportation. First order impact from trade tariffs affects 3% of loan book (unchanged from 1Q25). Two-thirds of loan book are in strong domestic sectors. Further stress tests show that portfolio remains resilient. Sustainable loans grew +19% y/y to SGD53bn, representing 16% of the loan book. Management expects 2H25 loan growth to continue at 1H's pace.

Asset quality: New NPA formation was higher q/q at SGD256mn (last four quarters averaged SGD321mn per quarter) as there is pickup in NPL in consumer/private bank space, relating to some loans in private banks. Loans spread across a few clients and management is confident on recovering a lot of these loans. Overall CRE exposure has come down as management has been downgrading cases and increasing ECL2+3. Management is comfortable with the portfolio as long as valuation does not decline.

Non-interest income: Wealth net new money at SGD4bn (1Q25: SGD5bn). Charging bancassurance fees on GEH is one of the options on the table. The Bank of Singapore saw broad-based growth, though leverage is muted as clients fear drop in market. BOS continues to significantly grow its fee-based business. The consumer business saw good demand in treasury, bonds, structured products, and new bancassurance products with GEH and good loan growth given low interest rates. Investment activity as a percentage of AUM across all segments is now at 60%.

Capital and dividends, GEH: Management remains interested to grow inorganically and organically with two criteria for inorganic acquisition: 1) Fits OCBC's strategy 2) at a reasonable cost. Management is satisfied with outcome of increasing economic interest with GEH and there is no imminent plan for another round of offers. On dividends, management believes we should not rule out flat DPS y/y, as OCBC has history of paying above its dividend payout ratio policy, while interim dividend has been at 50%. Management will assess capital needs at year-end.
